

RESEARCH

Peer Reviewed Publications

Rubenstein, E. L. Health Information and Health Literacy: Public Library Practices, Challenges, and Opportunities. (In press, Public Library Quarterly)

Rubenstein, E. L. (2015). Rituals of introduction and revolving roles: Socialization in an online breast cancer community. (In press, Library & Information Science Research)

Koh, K., Rubenstein, E. L., & White, K. (2015). Implications and potential impacts of information behavior research: A pilot study of research literature analysis. (In press, Information Research)

Rubenstein, E. L. (2014). "They are always there for me": The convergence of social support and information in an online breast cancer community. Journal of the Association for Information Science and Technology. (Published online Early View, Nov. 6, 2014.)

Rubenstein, E. (2012). "Things my doctor never told me": Bridging information gaps in an online community. Proceedings of the annual meeting of the American Society for Information Science & Technology, October 26-30, Baltimore, MD.

Rubenstein, E. (2012). From social hygiene to consumer health: Libraries, health information, and the American public. Library and Information History, 28(3), 202-219.

Shachaf, P. & Rubenstein, E. (2007). A comparative analysis of libraries' approaches to copyright: Israel, Russia, and the U.S. Journal of Academic Librarianship, 33(1), 94-105.

Posters & Presentations

Koh, K., Rubenstein, E. L., & White, K. (2015). Implications and potential impacts of information behavior research. Poster to be presented at the 2015 iConference, March 24-28, Newport Beach, CA.

Koh, K., Rubenstein, E. L., & White, K. (2014). The context of practicality in the implications and impacts of information behavior research. Lightning talk presented at the SIG-USE Symposium at ASIS&T Annual Meeting, October 31-November 5, Seattle, WA.

Rubenstein, E. L. (2013). Crowdsourcing health literacy: The case of an online community. Poster presented at the annual meeting of the Association for Information Science & Technology (ASIS&T), November 1-5, Montreal, Quebec.

Rubenstein, E. L. (2013). The role of informal peer support networks on health literacy. Poster presented at the annual meeting of the American Library and Information Science Educator (ALISE), January 22-25, Seattle, WA.

Veinot, T., Souden, M. et al. (2012). Information, interaction and innovation in consumer health: New directions at the intersection of information science and informatics. Panel presentation at the annual meeting of the American Society for Information Science & Technology, October 26-30, Baltimore, MD.

Rubenstein, E. L. (2011). "It's a microcosm of life": Weaving a web of information and support in an online breast cancer community. Dissertation research presented at a workshop of the Special Interest Group – Social Informatics at the annual meeting of the American Society for Information Science & Technology, October 9-12, 2011, New Orleans, LA.

Rubenstein, E. L. (2011). Disease and social mission: Libraries, health information, and the American public. Paper presented at the annual meeting of the Association for Library and Information Science Education, January 4-7, San Diego, CA.

Rubenstein, E. (2010). Researcher subjects: Gaining access and building trust in an online breast cancer support group. Poster presented at the iConference, February 3-6, Champaign, IL.

Rubenstein, E. (2010). Role play: Gaining access and building trust in an online breast cancer support group. Presented at the Sixth International Congress of Qualitative Inquiry, May 26-29, Champaign, IL.

Souden, M., Rubenstein, E. L., Genuis, S. K., Hogan, T. P., & Veinot, T. C. E. (2010). Listening to patients: How understanding health information use can contribute to health literacy constructs. Panel presented at the annual meeting of the American Society for Information Science & Technology, October 22-27, Pittsburgh, PA.

Rubenstein, E. (2009). Multidimensional facets of information exchange among members of an online breast cancer support group. Work-in-Progress poster session at the annual meeting of the Association for Library and Information Science Education, January 20-23, Denver, CO.

Rubenstein, E. (2009). Acquiring health literacy through participation in an online breast cancer support group. Presented at the Ohio State University Expanding Literacy Conference, April 3-5, Columbus, OH.

Rubenstein, E. (2009). Dimensions of information exchange in an online breast cancer support group. Proceedings of the annual meeting of the American Society for Information Science & Technology, November 6-11, Vancouver, BC.

Rubenstein, E. (2009). Dimensions of information exchange and health literacy in an online breast cancer support group. Presented at the annual conference of the Association of Internet Researchers (AoIR 10), October 7-10, Milwaukee, WI.

Rubenstein, E. (2008). Coping, communication, and information behavior among women undergoing breast lump diagnosis. Presented at the Kentucky Conference on Health Communication, April 17-19, Lexington, KY.

Rubenstein, E. (2008). The intersection of information behavior and coping among women undergoing breast lump diagnosis. Proceedings of the annual meeting of the American Society for Information Science & Technology, October 24-29, Columbus, OH.

Rubenstein, E. (2007). Online breast cancer support groups: Interweaving folklore, learning and community. Presented at the American Folklore Society Annual Meeting, October 17-21, 2007, Quebec City, Quebec.

Rubenstein, E. (2007). The Monroe County Public Library: Its place in the community. Presented to Indiana School of Library and Information Science as recipient of Beta Phi Mu Award and Scholarship, Bloomington, IN.